I am unaware as to whether the commercially available version of [REDACTED]'s book Where's What is an abridgment of the original publication. I do know that the book, as a whole, was declassified.

This Agency's supply of the publication Where's What is exhausted; I am unable, therefore, to respond directly to your request. At the time of its declassification, a copy was provided the Library of Congress, which has converted it to microfiche format. If you wish to obtain a copy from the Library of Congress, you may address your request to the Photoduplication Service, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., 20540.

Sincerely, [REDACTED]

STATINTL

[REDACTED]
Deputy Director of Security
